IPTV from Netvue at Envy

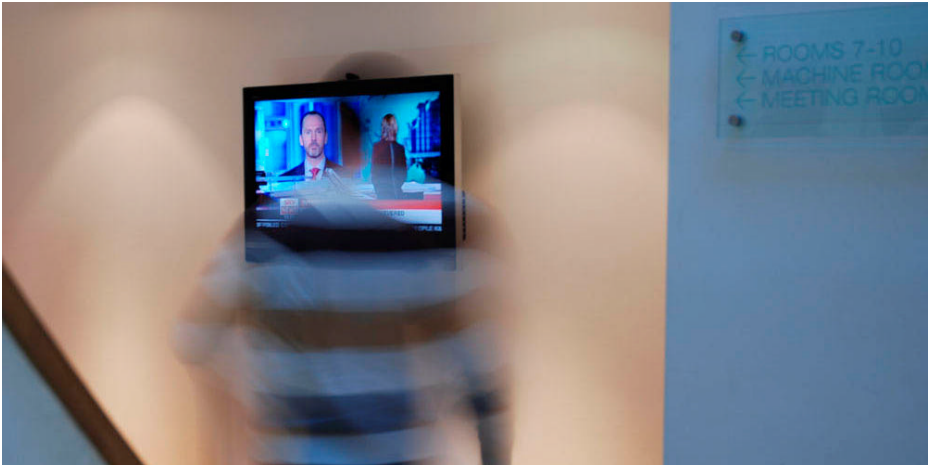

IPTV is the convergence of television distribution with IT data network infrastructure. IPTV has rapidly become the industry standard for TV and audio-visual distribution around buildings.

Envy bought a Netvue IPTV system in 2006 to provide live broadcast TV to client edit suites and to provide capability for media distribution to viewing rooms and client areas. Netvue's IPTV streaming system distributes a range of TV channels, carrying live broadcast TV and IP encoded video, across the company's IT network to multiple end users on three sites.

Netvue IPTV also offers Video on Demand, and with no need for TV cabling the system has the added benefit that users can watch TV and video on computers, as well as TV display screens.

"Netvue has been our solutions provider for all IPTV requirements at Envy. All of their installations have worked extremely well and Netvue has always provided us with a first class service."

Daniel Sassen, Chief Engineer, Envy Post Production
